HORATIUS OPENS IN SAN FRANCISCO'S SHOWPLACE SQUARE/POTRERO HILL NEIGHBORHOOD

SAN FRANCISCO — June 22, 2009 — Horatius, a market gallery, bistro, wine bar and event venue featuring distinctive food, wine, home and garden products opened its doors on June 17 in San Francisco's Showplace Square/Potrero Hill district, across from the California Culinary Academy.

The philosophy at Horatius is simple: we believe that products made with care, authenticity and respect for the environment enhance our lives. Horatius promises to be a vibrant new addition to the Bay Area food and wine community as well as the Potrero Hill neighborhood.

The market gallery at Horatius is more than a store, it is an ever-changing showcase of distinctive artisan goods. Each month, we showcase olive oils, wines, cheeses and more from regional and international producers. Culinary classes are offered each week.

The bistro at Horatius uses the freshest seasonal ingredients to make classic, Mediterranean-inspired dishes with a Portuguese slant and a Californian lightness and sensibility. Based on the belief that great food comes from great ingredients, the bistro features foods that are local, organic and sustainable whenever possible.

Horatius features coffee selected for us by our friends at Ritual Roasters. The San Francisco-based coffee company is known for their roasting expertise and extraordinary single farm selections. The branded Horatius coffee and our current house brewed coffee are from beans grown at Fazenda Esperança, one of Brazil's finest family coffee farms. Horatius also carries Karindunda from Kenya, a single origin bean, used for our bistro's espresso drinks. Within the market gallery, Horatius is also showcasing the Ritual Roasters Finca Cardenas from Guatemala and 5 de Junio from Nicaragua.
